GOAL	Find homes that fit a small, high	Judge a home without flying in	Narrow down to the best two or three	Feel the home in person	Pay a fair price, not overpay	Secure it safely and simply
ACTIONS	Save preferences, searches, filters, scans the map	Browses gallery, floor plans, location, compares	Scores, compares, views with advisor	Books a visit, takes chauffeur, tours the city	Submits offer, tracks seller response	Updates documents, e-signs, pays deposit
TOUCHPOINTS	Website · Preferences · Home · Search · Maps	Email · Gallery · Features · Location · Mortgage	Saved · Compare · Advisor · Chat	Book a viewing · My viewings	Make an offer · Offer status	Documents · Sign · Deposit · Confirmed
THOUGHTS	"Is this why the public listings?"	"Is the view really like the photos?"	"Which of these is better value?"	"This is the one."	"Will they accept? Am I too low?"	"Is my money safe in this process?"
EMOTION (SEE CURVE)
PAIN POINTS	Darkest portraits hint luxury with hidden license	Photos alone do not convey scale or light	Hard to compare unlike properties	Coordinating travel and access	Silence while waiting for the seller	Paperwork, foreign rules, large transfers
OPPORTUNITIES	Off-market access and a national feed	Floor plans, gallery take-and-3D tour	Side-by-side compare with value highlights	One-tap booking with chauffeur	Live status timeline and countdown	Escrow-record: e-sign, start next steps

UX RESEARCH

Primary purchase journey

Wireframe User Flow — AURELLE

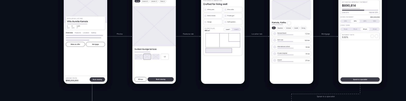

Lo-fi wireframes for the full buyer journey, from first open to keys in hand. Covers the app's core flows: onboarding, discovery, shortlisting, side-by-side compare, booking the chauffeur viewing, making an offer, and closing. Built to validate structure before any visual design work begins.
