BAIBUA SPA · UX RESEARCH

How people choose and book a moment of rest

Research plan, early hypotheses and design direction for the spa & massage booking app.

NOTE Insights below are hypotheses from desk research and team knowledge. Validate them with interviews and usability tests before treating them as findings.

RESEARCH GOALS

- Understand how locals and visitors decide where and when to get a massage
- Find what builds trust before a first visit
- Identify friction in today's booking (phone, LINE, walk-in)
- Learn what brings guests back

KEY QUESTIONS

- What triggers the decision to book a treatment?
- How do people judge quality before they arrive?
- What makes them abandon a booking?
- How much do therapist, price and time slot matter?

METHODS

- 1:1 interviews · 45 min, remote or in-spa
- In-spa observation · reception & check-in
- Competitor review · booking apps & spa sites
- Usability test · this prototype, 5 tasks

PARTICIPANTS

- [n] Bangkok residents, 25–45, massage at least monthly
- [n] international visitors staying 3+ nights
- [n] regulars 50+, therapy-led (pain relief)
- Mix of first-timers and loyal guests

KEY INSIGHTS TO VALIDATE

HYPOTHESIS 01

Trust comes from seeing the room

Guests want real photos of rooms, cleanliness and therapists before a first visit — stock imagery reads as a warning sign.

DESIGN RESPONSE
Hero photos · Service detail · Locations

HYPOTHESIS 02

Time is the real currency

Most bookings are squeezed around work. Seeing open slots at a glance matters more than browsing the menu.

DESIGN RESPONSE
Date & time grouped by part of day

HYPOTHESIS 03

Surprise costs break trust

Add-ons, tips and taxes shown late cause drop-off at payment.

DESIGN RESPONSE
Running total in Add-ons · Review & pay

HYPOTHESIS 04

A favourite therapist is loyalty

Regulars return for a person, not a place. Losing "their" therapist is a reason to switch spas.

DESIGN RESPONSE
Therapist profile · Book with [Name]

HYPOTHESIS 05

Visitors need reassurance in English

Tourists worry about etiquette, pressure, and getting there. Clear directions and simple language lower anxiety.

DESIGN RESPONSE
Treatment detail · Directions · Arrival tip

HYPOTHESIS 06

Rebooking is forgotten, not rejected

Guests intend to come back but don't plan it. A gentle nudge after the visit brings them back.

DESIGN RESPONSE
Review prompt · Points · Book again

HOW MIGHT WE

How might we show a spa's atmosphere honestly before the first visit?

How might we make finding a slot that fits after work take seconds?

How might we keep the price clear from first tap to payment?

How might we help guests stay with the therapist they trust?

DESIGN PRINCIPLES

Calm, not cluttered
One decision per screen; generous space.

Honest from the start
Real photos, full prices, no hidden fees.

Personal touch
Remember the guest, their therapist and preferences.

RESEARCH TIMELINE

WEEK 1	WEEK 2	WEEK 3	WEEK 4

Screener, consent, interview guide	1:1 sessions, in-spa visits	Affinity map, update personas & journey	Test booking prototype, iterate

BAIBUA SPA · PERSONAS

Who we are designing for

Three proto-personas covering the busy local, the visiting traveller and the therapy-led regular.

NOTE Proto-personas built from assumptions. Names, ages and details are illustrative — replace [Surname] and refine after interviews.

PRIMARY PERSONA

Pharina C

32 · Marketing manager · Bangkok

"I just want to book something calming after work — without calling or waiting."

Works long hours in Sukhumvit and books a massage every two to three weeks to reset. Plans on her phone during the commute and loves an aromatherapy oil treatment with a therapist she trusts.

GOALS
- Book an evening slot in under a minute
- Get the same therapist each time
- Know the total price before paying

FRUSTRATIONS
- Phone lines busy or LINE replies slow
- Popular evening slots fill up
- Add-on prices only revealed at the counter

BEHAVIOURS
- Books 1–3 days ahead, weekday evenings
- Pays with PromptPay
- Reads reviews and checks room photos

Low — Price sensitivity — High
Last minute — Plans ahead — Weeks ahead
Low — Tech comfort — High

SECONDARY PERSONA

Emma [Surname]

41 · Visitor from abroad · 5 nights in Bangkok

"I want a real Thai massage, but I don't know what's normal or how to get there."

Travelling with her partner and wants an authentic experience she can trust. Unsure about etiquette, how firm the pressure will be, and the right price to pay.

GOALS
- Find an authentic, clean spa nearby
- Understand treatments in plain English
- Book a couple suite for two

FRUSTRATIONS
- Unclear pricing and tipping
- Hard to judge quality from photos
- Getting lost finding the branch

BEHAVIOURS
- Books same day or next day
- Pays by card or Apple Pay
- Relies on maps and reviews

Low — Price sensitivity — High
Last minute — Plans ahead — Weeks ahead
Low — Tech comfort — High

SECONDARY PERSONA

Somchai [Surname]

58 · Retired engineer · Nonthaburi

"My back needs regular care. I go to the therapist who knows my body."

Visits weekly for traditional Thai massage and herbal compress to manage back pain. Prefers a familiar routine and a therapist who remembers his needs.

GOALS
- Keep a weekly routine with one therapist
- Use membership points and discounts
- Simple, readable booking

FRUSTRATIONS
- Small text and crowded screens
- Forgetting to rebook
- Therapist unavailable at his usual time

BEHAVIOURS
- Same day and time every week
- Pays cash or at the spa
- Prefers calling, open to an easy app

Low — Price sensitivity — High
Last minute — Plans ahead — Weeks ahead
Low — Tech comfort — High
