UX RESEARCH

Feel Great checkout · research plan and findings

What we want to learn about mobile checkout and subscriptions, how we'll learn it, and what an expert review of the current flow already shows.

Evidence so far: an expert review of 4 screenshots of the current flow. No interviews, tests or analytics have been run yet, so every finding below is to be confirmed with users.

RESEARCH GOALS

1. Find where members drop off
   Which checkout step loses people on mobile, and why.
2. Check subscription clarity
   Do buyers know what they'll be charged, when, and how to skip or cancel?
3. Measure form friction
   How long address and card entry take, and where errors happen.

RESEARCH QUESTIONS

1. Do people understand the difference between subscribe and one-time before they add to cart?
2. Which shipping fields cause the most errors or hesitation on a phone?
3. How do members choose between saved cards, and do they trust adding a new one?
4. After paying, can people find their next billing date and how to skip or cancel?
5. What makes someone abandon at the review step: price, terms or effort?

METHODS

Method	What it tells us	Status
Heuristic review	Usability issues in the current screens	Done
Funnel analytics	Drop-off rate per checkout step, mobile vs desktop	Needs data
Moderated usability test	Why people struggle, on the redesigned prototype	Planned
Post-purchase survey	Confidence about billing and cancelling	Planned

WHO TO RECRUIT

- 6 to 8 participants
- Shoppers in Australia
- Buy on their phone
- Half current members with saved cards
- Half new to Feel Great
- Mix of subscription and one-time buyers

HEURISTIC REVIEW · CURRENT FLOW

Severity	Finding	Heuristic
High	Desktop two-column shipping form with no inline validation on a phone	Error prevention
High	Next billing date sits in small print; cancelling means contacting customer service	User control
Medium	"Lemon Ginger" and "Lemon & Ginger" read as the same flavour	Consistency
Medium	Struck-through prices (271 / 290 AUD) don't match the listed savings (70 AUD)	Trust
Medium	"Zip code" and a free-text State field for an Australian address	Real-world match
Medium	Five saved cards with equal weight, and the new-card form open by default	Efficiency
Low	"Next: Final step" doesn't say what happens next	Visibility
Low	Saved address mixes Thai and Australian details, and nothing flags it	Error prevention

USABILITY TEST TASKS

1. Subscribe to a Feel Great Pack in the flavour you'd pick
2. Change the quantity to 2, then back to 1
3. Ship it to a new address
4. Pay with a card you haven't saved yet
5. Find when you'll be billed next, then skip that delivery

PERSONAS

Who we're designing checkout for

Proto-personas: fictional people built from the heuristic review and our assumptions, not from interviews. Update them after the usability test.

Mia Primary

The returning subscriber · member with saved cards

> "I just want my monthly pack to arrive without thinking about it, and skip a month when I travel."

- Shops on her phone in short breaks
- Uses saved cards
- Re-orders monthly

GOALS

- Check out in under a minute
- Keep the member and subscription discounts
- Skip or pause without calling anyone

FRUSTRATIONS

- Re-typing an address on a small screen
- A long list of old cards to pick from
- Not knowing when the next charge lands

WHAT SHE NEEDS FROM US

Saved card picked by default, the total on the button, and the next billing date with a one-tap skip after she pays.

- 3 · Billing
- 4 · Purchase
- 7 · Manage subscription

Daniel Secondary

The cautious first-time buyer · referred by a friend

> "I'll try it once, but I don't want to get locked into a monthly charge I can't stop."

- New to Feel Great
- Compares price before buying
- Enters card details for the first time

GOALS

- Understand what's in the pack
- Compare subscribe vs one-time honestly
- Know he can get his money back

FRUSTRATIONS

- Prices and savings that don't add up
- Recurring terms hidden in small print
- Form errors shown only after submitting

WHAT HE NEEDS FROM US

Clear pack contents and pricing, the money back guarantee one tap away, inline form errors, and a plain cancel path.

EMOTION
FEELING AND THOUGHT	Curious "What's actually in the pack?"	Confident "Did I pick the right plan?"	Tedious "So many fields on a small screen."	Cautious "Which card will this charge?"	Unsure "When will I be billed again?"	Anxious "Did my payment go through?"	Relieved "Done. What happens next?"	Reassured "Can I skip or cancel easily?"
PAIN POINTS ORIGINAL FLOW	"Lemon Ginger" and "Lemon & Ginger" read as duplicates Struck prices don't match the listed savings No view of what's in the pack	Add to cart jumps straight into checkout No chance to change quantity first	Desktop two-column form on mobile "Zip code" and free-text State for Australia No inline validation	Five saved cards with equal weight New-card form open by default "Next: Final step" is vague	Dense legal text, "$220" instead of AUD Next billing date is easy to miss	No feedback while the order is placed No path when a payment fails	Not covered in the screens reviewed No clear next steps after paying	Cancelling means contacting customer service No order tracking in the screens reviewed
REDESIGN OPPORTUNITIES	Swipeable photo gallery "What's inside" cards Live price in the button and a "Save 15 AUD" badge	Added-to-cart sheet with quantity and savings Remove with Undo	Contact and address groups, Postcode, State picker Locked email and country Inline errors with a summary banner	Saved cards as one selectable list Remove asks to confirm Inline card errors	Ship-to, delivery and payment with Change links "Place order · 220 AUD" and a clear next billing date	Status steps while placing the order Retry, or pay with another card	Receipt email, total and next billing date in one place	Order status timeline Subscription card with Manage subscription
WHAT TO MEASURE	Add-to-cart rate; subscribe vs one-time mix	Cart to checkout rate; removals undone	Time to complete; field error rate	Saved-card use; card error rate	Review to order placed rate	Payment success rate; recovery after a failure	Order details views; support contacts	Skip and cancel rate; month-2 retention
